Introduction to the qualifications

ASDAN's Personal and Social Development (PSD) qualifications are available at five levels: Entry 1, Entry 2, Entry 3, Level 1 and Level 2.

They are accredited by Ofqual, Qualifications Wales and CCEA and listed in England and Northern Ireland in the Register of Regulated Qualifications. In Wales they appear in the Qualifications in Wales (QiW) database.

The ASDAN Level 1 and 2 qualifications in PSD embrace personal, social, health, citizenship and ICT, and enable candidates to develop skills that prepare them for independence and working life. They offer imaginative ways of supporting young people in becoming confident individuals who are physically, emotionally and socially healthy, being responsible citizens who make a positive contribution to society and embrace change and managing risk together with their own wellbeing, as well as introducing them to new activities and personal challenges.

The qualifications are available for learners pre and post-16 and can be taught in schools, colleges, residential centres, training providers, PRUs, secure units and other local authority and independent provision.

Structure of qualifications (see table opposite)

- There are a number of units available at each level.
- Each unit is credit-rated (1 credit is broadly equivalent to 10 hours of learning)
- Single unit accreditation is available.

Including units from the level above and below

Candidates normally complete all units at the same level, but there is flexibility to choose units from the level above or below the qualification outcome.

For a full Award qualification (8 credits) the candidate must achieve a minimum of 5 credits at the level of the qualification outcome. The remaining credits can come from the level below or above, if appropriate.

For a full Certificate qualification (13 credits) the candidate must achieve a minimum of 7 credits at the level of the qualification outcome. The remaining credits can come from the level below or above, if appropriate.

The full specifications can be downloaded from the PSD members area of the ASDAN website: www.asdan.org.uk.

Candidates who are not yet ready for assessment develop knowledge through appropriate activities.	Tutors guide candidates on the choice of units and practice activities to develop their knowledge. Tutors provide feedback on candidate development.
Candidates undertake activities that will allow them to meet the requirements of the chosen assessment units. As they carry out the activities they complete the appropriate Action Plan/ Review sheets. Candidates collect any supplementary evidence needed to show they have met the all the requirements of the qualification. Unit MSR1: Managing Social Relationships

Aim	This unit is about exploring individuals' behaviour in social situations and about helping candidates to interact and communicate with others in positive ways.
Level	1	Credit value	2
Learner outcomes The learner will:	Assessment criteria The learner can:
1.1 Understand how to interact with others in a range of social situations	1.1.1 Identify at least two social situations in which they may need to interact with others 1.1.2 Identify positive behaviours which can be used when interacting with others 1.1.3 Explain why it is important to use positive behaviours when interacting with others
1.2 Demonstrate how to interact with others in a range of social situations	1.2.1 Take an active role in exchanges on different topics, with one or more people 1.2.2 Use a range of appropriate behaviours when participating in the exchanges 1.2.3 Use appropriate formal and informal communication techniques

At this level...

Level 1 candidates should be capable of understanding the idea of positive and negative behaviours and how these impact on social interactions. Candidates should be able to apply this understanding and interact with others in positive ways in a range of situations.

Sample

Guidance for Level 1: Managing Social Relationships (MSR1)

Assessment and evidence

MSR 1.1 Candidates should be given the opportunity to consider a range of social situations where they may interact with others. Tutors should ensure candidates have an understanding of what is meant by positive behaviour and why it is important. Observing and discussing the behaviour of characters in soap operas could be a good starting point for thinking about these issues.

Candidates must be able to identify behaviours that facilitate positive interaction with others in social situations (e.g. active listening; being polite, respectful and friendly; behaving assertively rather than responding aggressively or passively). Their evidence must show they know about at least four positive behaviours.

Recommended evidence:

- discussion with peers (witnessed by the tutor/assessor) about positive behaviours and why they are important. The tutor/assessor should provide a witness statement/observation checklist confirming the candidate has engaged in the discussion, is able to give examples of positive behaviours and understands the impact these have when interacting with others
- plus
- notes made by the candidate in preparation for the discussion; the notes should identify at least four positive behaviours that are appropriate for a minimum of two different social situations; the notes should include the candidate's explanation of why positive behaviours are important

MSR 1.2 It is likely that candidates will need to engage in a significant amount of preliminary work before taking part in exchanges that can be used to evidence the criteria for this learning outcome. They will need to know about and practise different communication techniques (e.g. active listening, open body language, suitable vocabulary, questioning) and they should be encouraged to reflect on their performance and think about any changes they could make. Candidates must show that they are able to use these techniques appropriately in informal and formal settings.

Candidates must be witnessed demonstrating active participation, appropriate behaviour and appropriate communication when interacting with others on at least two different occasions (e.g. interacting in an informal situation with friends at a school club; interacting formally in an interview, when buying things from a shop/café or when buying lunch in the school canteen). Role play witnessed by a tutor/assessor is one way of evidencing this learning outcome.

Recommended evidence:

- observation sheets* of the candidate engaging in exchanges with one or more people in two different social situations (one informal and one formal). The comments on each sheet should describe how the candidate met all of the criteria for MSR1.2 during the exchange
- or
- witness statements* giving details of how the candidate met all of the criteria for MSR1.2 when taking part in role plays of two different social situations (one informal and one formal)

Evidence must show that on each occasion the candidate took an active role in the exchange, behaved appropriately and used a range of communication techniques.*

Unit MSR2: Managing Social Relationships

Aim	This unit is about exploring individuals' behaviour in social situations and about helping candidates to interact and communicate with others in positive ways.
Level	2	Credit value	2
Learner outcomes The learner will:	Assessment criteria The learner can:
2.1 Understand how to interact with others in a range of social situations	2.1.1 Describe a range of social situations involving interaction with others 2.1.2 Identify positive behaviours which can be used when interacting with others and explain why they are positive 2.1.3 Give examples of a range of negative behaviours and explain their potential impact on self and others if used in social situations
2.2 Interact with others in a range of social situations	2.2.1 Take an active role in exchanges in different social situations 2.2.2 Use a range of appropriate behaviours when participating in exchanges and justify why they are appropriate 2.2.3 Use a range of appropriate formal and informal communication techniques and explain why they are appropriate to different situations

At this level...

Level 2 candidates should be capable of understanding the idea of positive and negative behaviours and be capable of explaining how they impact on social interactions. Candidates should be able to apply this understanding and interact and communicate with others in positive ways in a range of situations.

Guidance for Level 2: Managing Social Relationships (MSR2)

Assessment and evidence

MSR 2.1 Candidates should be given the opportunity to consider a range of social situations where they may interact with others. Tutors should ensure they have an understanding of what represents positive behaviour and negative behaviour in these contexts. Observing and discussing the behaviour of characters in soap operas could be a good starting point for thinking about these issues.

Candidates must be able to identify at least four different behaviours that would support positive interaction with others and should be able to explain what makes them positive (e.g. greeting your neighbour in the street and having a chat with them demonstrates a friendly manner and contributes to maintaining a positive relationship). Candidates must also give at least four examples of negative behaviours in social situations and must explain the impact these might have on themselves and on other people (e.g. behaving rudely in a café or restaurant would upset staff and could result in receiving poor service, either then or on other occasions). It is acceptable for the examples given by the candidate to relate to the same setting. For example, positive behaviour when talking to someone at a party would be to show your attention is focused on what the other person is saying (e.g. nodding, making eye contact, asking questions) and the opposite would be allowing your attention to wander (e.g. looking round the room, checking your phone).

Recommended evidence:

- PowerPoint presentation (produced by the candidate), with images, illustrating four positive and four negative behaviours in the context of three different scenarios and explaining the impact on the situation of the behaviours used
or discussion with peers (witnessed by the tutor/assessor) about positive and negative behaviours and why they are important, in the context of at least three different situations; the tutor/assessor should provide a witness statement/observation checklist confirming the candidate has engaged in the discussion, they are able to give at least four examples of positive and at least four negative behaviours and they understand the impact these have when interacting with others
plus
- notes made by the candidate in preparation for the discussion; the notes should identify at least four positive behaviours and at least four negative behaviours and should include the candidate's explanation of why these are important and the impact they may have

MSR 2.2 Candidates need to know about and practise different communication techniques (e.g. active listening, using open body language, using suitable vocabulary, questioning). Candidates should show that they are able to use these techniques appropriately in formal and informal settings.

Candidates must be witnessed demonstrating active participation and appropriate behaviour/communication during exchanges with other people in at least three different social situations (including at least one informal and one formal situation). This could be interacting in an informal situation with friends (e.g. at a school club) and interacting formally (e.g. in an interview, when communicating with reception staff at school/college, when buying lunch in the school canteen). Candidates must be able to explain their choice of behaviour and/or communication technique in each situation and give reasons for their choices.

Role play, witnessed by a tutor/assessor, is one way of evidencing this learning outcome. Alternatively, candidates could be encouraged to keep an activity log/diary to record their positive behaviour/communication. If used as the sole piece of evidence for this learning outcome, the log/diary should cover a minimum of three different social situations.

Guidance for Level 2: Managing Social Relationships (MSR2)

Recommended evidence:

- log/diary (verified by a witness) in which the individual records their positive behaviour and their use of formal and informal communication techniques in different situations; the candidate should comment on why particular behaviours or communication techniques were appropriate for particular situations and/or observation sheets confirming the candidate behaved appropriately and used appropriate communication techniques when participating in role plays of different situations
plus
- commentaries on the role plays explaining the impact on the situation of the behaviours and communication techniques they used (produced by the candidate)
