Background and key features

Personal and social effectiveness is key for inspiring confidence and equipping learners with the skills and qualities they will need for the complexities of learning, work and life.

Co-designed with teachers, our new qualifications cover three skills-based units:

- Developing myself and my performance
- Working with others
- Problem solving

Formative challenges for each unit allow learners to demonstrate the skills and knowledge they develop through a portfolio of evidence. Successful completion of these units achieves the award.

Learners can achieve a certificate by completing a fourth unit, Delivering a project, linked to a topic the learner has covered in one of the three skills-based units.

The qualification specification and centre handbook contain all the essential information needed to support successful delivery.
